Buildoggers Beat Buckaroos.

In a tournament bowling match last evening the Buildoggers defeated the Buckaroos by an even 100 pins, the score being 2520 to 2720. The Buildoggers' score is the best made so far in the tournament and they are counting strong on the dinner which goes to the best match score. Krebs made the high score, 608, for the three games last evening, but Myers with 236 made the best single game score. However this mark is not as high as that made by John Hamley recently. The Buildoggers won all three games last evening and now have a record of eight wins and one loss. The scores made were as follows: Buildoggers, Stephens 534, Hays 342, Quay 533, Shuster 548, Hoover 551, Rocka, Rogers 554, Heding 545, Myers 608, Nudeman 474 and Krebs 608.

THIS SOUTHERNER IS SOME FOOTBALL LAD.

The silver of his period, though beautiful, was not so desirable as the modern kind. The old methods of working resulted in frailty of manufacture. This piece was sold at a higher price than the substantial pieces of today. Paul Revere's spoons are cherished as antiques, but are not subjected to common use by their present owners—they are too thin to be practical.

But this old silver was substantial enough to become the worthy object of family pride. Pieces were treasured and handed down from generation to generation, sometimes kept together in one line, sometimes sent tered to become the foundation pieces for numerous family collections.

An instance of this latter is found in the will of Mary Chilton, who is reputed to have been the first person to step from the Mayflower. Here is a part of her will.

"Item—I give and bequeath unto my daughter Sarah Middlecott my best gowne and Petticoat, and my silver beare bowle, and to each of her children a silver cup with an handle. Also I give unto my grandchild William Paine my great silver tankard; Six silver spoons. * * * Item—I give and bequeath unto Mary Winslow, daughter of my sonne Edward Winslow, my largest silver cup with two handles. I also give unto my said sonne Edward's Children six silver spoons to be divided between them."

Most of us have not had Mary Chilton as an ancestor and must therefore depend upon ourselves for our "family plate." This has its advantage too, for we are able to select a family pattern that suits the present generation. Silver dishes are made now for purposes not thought of in colonial times or even so late as a generation ago.

But no matter how we get it—whether by inheritance or purchase—we should have the family plate. No material thing serves better to show the pride we take in our families—or families.

As a Christmas gift there is nothing more acceptable—especially to a woman—than good silver. Married or unmarried, any woman of culture appreciates good silver and likes to have it given to her. It is best to make such a gift after having taken her into your confidence so that she may designate the pattern. Silver lasts for centuries and should be chosen with more care than is used in the selection of things that wear out.

The writer knows a grandmother who has been giving silver pieces to each of her granddaughters every Christmas since they were born. It has meant a slight expense for her each year, but the result is that each of the three now has an adequate service such as they otherwise would have secured. Two of the granddaughters have married men with moderate incomes, but such is able to "lay a spread" that would compare favorably with the table of the very wealthy.
